This report was accepted and a motion was made by Buckler that the constitution be amended to change the present personnel of the Judiciary committee which is now composed of three faculty members and four students. The motion, seconded by Baker, was passed unanimously by the assembly and the amendment is as follows: The Judiciary committee shall be composed of five student members, two chosen from the assembly, including the chairman, and three members to be chosen by SGA from the student body at large.

Must Be Ratified
This amendment must be ratified in the March 2 election by a majority of the student body and approved by the University Faculty before it becomes effective. If this measure does not receive a majority student vote the present Judiciary committee will assume its investigating powers and be composed of three faculty members and four students.

Election Included

Students Voice Opinion Of Black Market

By Mary Louise Patton

In asking the survey question this week—what do you think of the black market in the United States?—it was found that few of the students on this campus have ever had any contact with the black market.

Several of the students interviewed said they would not buy from the black market. One English major said not even cigarettes or nylons would tempt her if they came from the black market. "It seems like black market in this war is worse than any other such organized underground we have had in past wars," she continued. "I don't believe the black market can ever be very effectively controlled because unscrupulous people will keep it up willingly."

Plans Made To Construct Fieldhouse

Will Also Build
Residence Halls,
Dining Unit

Tentative plans for the construction of a war memorial fieldhouse, which will serve primarily as a basketball colosseum, were approved Saturday by the University board of trustee's executive committee.

The plans call for a swimming pool and for complete equipment as a men's gym. The fieldhouse will be convertible to a giant auditorium when the need arises.

To Draw Specifications
The tentative contract for the fieldhouse calls for the employment of three Lexington architects to draw plans and specifications for a $1,000,000 fieldhouse to be erected as a memorial to Kentuckians who have participated in World War II. The $1,750,000 expenditure also will include construction of a new $300,000 residence hall for women, a $200,000 dining unit, and $250,000 residence hall for men, Dr. Donovan announced.

As soon as the building materials become available, the construction contracts will be let.

Appropriated At Two Sessions
The money for the fieldhouse was appropriated at two legislative sessions. The 1942 assembly appropriated $400,000 for the biennium and the 1944 Legislature appropriated $5,200,000 for the construction of various public buildings, including the fieldhouse.

The women's hall will house nearly 300 students and the men's hall will complete the quadrangle of halls for men on the campus.

Event of the week: The Phi Delt were the "boys in the back room" at the Fireplace Saturday night. We heard it was one swell party. Rushes included Sammy Hultzelaw, Bob Drake, Charlie Tyce, and Alex Montgomery. There were several other interesting ones, but we didn't see 'em.

Ridgely Park, we understand that if you keep studying Greenberg Marshall's letters in class you will make a "3" standing, but not in your first hour class. Maybe it is just as well, what is learning compared with a man. I understand they can teach one lots.

Mary Jean Lair sent D. O. Burke a stag bid for the Patt hall dance — Unimimmm!

Is Jim O'Connor, Judy Maier's latest?

Look, Fortney we don't like those spite dates with "Harb" Futrell either.

If three months means anything, we would say Martha Daws and Ralph Crider are going steady.

Help the Fielding Roger's blind fund. He can be found with his tin cup in front of the White Tavern at night.

A.S.T.R. news of the week involves: Who is Stan Kruger dating and eating Sunday dinner with? Ole Alpha Gam standby is Chuck Martin. Must Dave Berman talk in his sleep. Who is she, Dave?

"Always" Ted Grozouski and Fran Friehe.

Maybe I should mention "Rats" Bowen and Ann Oldham. After last week they not only made up but got pinned.

Helen Horton, I understand you and Roy Crawford are at it again. Keep up the good work.

Stewart Ritchie, A.S.T. magician, has some amazing new tactics—he hypnotizes girls and then tells them to kiss him. The girls don't know what they are doing, but you can bet your life he does.

Ed Hale, is stepping out on his other 14 girl admirers when he dates Polly Thompson. God's gift to the women had better watch out, or God won't like his slighting them.

To bring Charlie Gardner up to date, we will mention the dates he has been having with Marybelle Calvert.

Will Betty Jo Woolen and Bob Ogden please do something interesting? I love to write about them.

'George' Is Serini's Namesake

By Mary Cross

Many a wild cherry tree in Turkeahoe, New York has been felled by honest Washington Frank Serini who tripped out yesterday all dressed in red, white and blue. "Sure we all tell lies," he says, "but I'm trying my best to be fair and square."

He's the greatest man that ever lived," says "Wash" of his namesake. "If it weren't for him we would probably all be driving on the wrong side of the road the way they do in England."

"Sure, I'd like to be a chief of police in a small town," was his answer to a question of whether he hoped to become a great statesman. "Wash" would also like to be a top sergeant in the Marine Corps where he could exercise his pleasure of being a leader of men.

He did not explain an earlier statement that his best Christmas present was on December 25, 1942, when he received an honorable discharge from the Marines after six months service.

Like "Wash," his brothers and sisters, ten altogether, bear the mark of a liberty-loving family. Starting with his first sister, born in America, the names run from Liberty, America, Columbia, Rome, Trento, Trieste, to Lebro and Renaldo.

"Wash" wants to name his first son Washington and in this future generation to have George in front of it. "Wash" says he "looks up to a great man."

THE SALT

SHAKER

By Billie Fischer

As we see it, there is no reason for any student to buy joke books. Nothing could be funnier than some of the examples used in the English text "Writing and Thinking," by Foerster and Steadman. For instance, "Mrs. Thomas went to North Dakota after her husband entered prison to live with relatives. . . . I noticed a short, fat man with one leg following close behind. . . . She identified the body as that of Donald, who had run away by means of scars on his left leg and forehead. . . . She had indeed nearly died of an attack similar to the one that killed her some eighteen months before. . . . The man who was driving was thrown when the horse stumbled and broke his arm. . . . One of the buttons on my shirt always breaks when hurrying to dress for a party. . . . On the way out of the store, the candy corner caught fire. . . . Three shots rang out. Two of the servants fell dead. The other went through his leg. . . . The baby lost its rattle and when he could not find it it began to cry."

Have you ever thought about doing something besides shuffling cokes and humming weeds in your spare time? Many students dissipate their hours of leisure by fooling around. We have the perfect solution to this problem. You can do something useful, enjoyable, interesting, patriotic and compensatory if you really want to cease your activities as a lounge lizard. The Sylvania Electric Products company is in dire need of women workers. Sylvania has a big war production quota to fill, and it can't be done with empty spaces on the assembly line. The hours are 4-7:30 p.m. and the pay is $1.75 an hour. Dean Holmes has all the information on the subject, so hoping that they'd make sense why don't you drop in to see when shug together. Then we her? Even if you decide not to mail the letter to Grandpa work for Sylvania, you can always tell your children that you once walked into the dean's office in German. All I.S. cards are voluntarily.

We're tickled pink to see that the University is finally getting on the ball. The school spirit at the Tennessee game was terrific. And it warmed our little heart to hear for the first time after being here a year and a half an Alma Mater song by the student body.

We're also happy about Miller Hall. Not only is it being beautified by fluorescent lighting, but its quaint little interior is being painted in the school colors. And there was the Founders' Day celebration, too. At last we have some tradition. We should "tradish" more often.

Just for the fun of it we decided to write a letter in German to our grandpappy. Having no knowledge of the language, we borrowed a friend's German grammar and copied some idioms word for word—information on the subject, so hoping that they'd make sense why don't you drop in to see when shug together. Then we her? Even if you decide not to mail the letter to Grandpa work for Sylvania, you can always tell your children that you once walked into the dean's office in German. All I.S. cards are voluntarily.

Sur-Meis-Ing

By Shirley Meister

Because yesterday was Washington's birthday, everything in this column will be the truth, believe it or not.

The reason the Tennessee players were kept in their rooms Saturday night after the game was because they had to catch an early train Sunday morning. Believe it or not.

One of our A.S.T. secret operators reports that Louis Theisen, the infamous swashbuckling romanticist of Company A, who is renowned for his recent escapades with the Alpha Gams, intends to announce his "engagement" to Gloria Vanderbilt for purely monetary reasons.

Remember the sailor who used to come to all the football games last fall and yell for the opposite teams? Well, he was back at the Tennessee game Saturday night with dark glasses on. Thinking he didn't want to be recognized, I asked him why he didn't sit on the other side. Lifting his glasses we saw two beautiful black eyes.

However, this time he yelled for Kentucky until the crowd booed Tennessee. He stood up and yelled "You poor sports" but he was completely ignored because the game was so exciting and besides what kind of answer could anyone have made.

They're The Foundations

Yesterday's celebration of Founders' Day brought to light again outstanding names in the eighty years of the University's history. Such men have been totally responsible down through the years for its steady growth, its respected reputation as an institution of high standards and ideals, and for its ability to develop leaders.

The incentive to push ahead and develop the resources already deeply rooted in the University has never died. And men are still striving to maintain that reputation.

Recently two professors, both outstanding in their specialized study on the campus, have distinguished themselves to a degree of particular recognition and it is not out of line now to mention Professors Irwin Sanders and Grant C. Knight as such men of noted accomplishments.

Before he came to the University as professor of sociology, Dr. Sanders taught Latin and English in Bulgaria. He holds a Ph.D. degree from Cornell University, his dissertation being based on a study of peasant life in the Balkans. Now granted a year's leave of absence from his teaching he will return to the Balkans at the beginning of the spring quarter where he will work for the State Department as an agricultural attaché in these countries.

"Most Distinguished Professor" is the title Grant C. Knight, of the English department, was justifiably given by the professors of the Arts and Sciences college in an election last month and it is this honor which grants to him the opportunity of leaving the University for an extended period of study and research work.

Both educators are scholars of genuine abilities. They are the men to make Founders' Day memorable in future years.

Field House Hopes Look Brighter—And We Can Dream

The picture is beginning to take on a realistic glow now—the huge $1,000,000 fieldhouse situated comfortably across the street from the football stadium, the mending line of cars parked up and down Rose and Euclid streets as far as the eye can see, and the thousands of Wildcat basketball fans as they pour into the spacious doors of the brand new structure.

Tentative contracts for plans for the construction of the War Memorial fieldhouse, the second memorial building on the campus, were approved by the executive committee of the University Board of Trustees. It will be dedicated to Kentuckians who have participated in World War II.

Even though tentative, the plans are taking great strides and the future looks brighter and brighter with each advancement. Maybe we can hope to ourselves—"it won't be long."

Swamp on Winslow Street Gives Way to Modern Plant
After three weeks of fighting the elements, the Blanchard Construction company, of Dayton, Ohio, is rapidly completing the concrete foundation for the new University basketball building and gymnasium. The location of the new building, in a swamp of many years standing, made it impossible for construction to be continued after a rain until the whole building area was thoroughly drained. The foundation is expected to be finished by October 20, 1923.

Plans for the new building, while not elaborate, call for one of the most modern basketball plants in the South. The basement of the building will include locker rooms and shower baths for the football, basketball, and track teams. The second floor contains a 90 x 50 basketball floor which will be surrounded by seats that will accommodate 3,400 spectators. During the practice period these seats may be arranged so that there will be three basketball courts available.

Stadium To Be Ready

When the autumn turns the forest leaves to gold and the tang of frost fills the nostrils, it is football time, and football time at the University this year is more than a slight incident.

A new stadium made possible through the efforts of the Alumni of the University, greeted all old students when they returned last week.

After the money was raised by subscription, totaling $125,000, work was started immediately, and, with the coming of October, the construction company hopes to have the stadium finished.

Kastle Hall to Have Additions

Plans and specifications for the first addition to be made on the new Chemistry building—which was completed in 1910—are now in the hands of the Chemistry department.

This addition consists of two wings which will be at each end and to the rear of the building. The new space will be taken up mainly by laboratories and recitation rooms. A new basement will be made, in which the Industrial Chemistry department will be located. In the front of the first floor will be a museum made for industrial products and raw materials.

'The Lowe-Down'

By Dick Lowe

Six points is not much, but it was plenty Saturday night as it served two purposes: (1) it defeated the Tennessee Volunteers; (2) it gave Kentucky undisputed possession of first place in the Southeastern Conference.

The Orange and White, official newspaper of the University of Tennessee, warned their players to keep off the street corners in waiting for streetcars, taxis and busses. They gave no reason for this statement and the only conclusion one could draw was that they had a guilty conscience and were judging the good people of Lexington according to the courtesy their town showed our team on their recent visit to Knoxville. But contrary to their opinion of the Blue Grass region, we still retain our southern hospitality, and even shower it on the opponents that try to discredit it so.

Every one is proud of the way the Kentucky spectators controlled their emotions and displayed none of the bad manners that the Tennessee group credited us with having. I imagine after the Vols went back home and told the home town of the sportsmanship shown here, there will be a few heads hung in shame, if the conferences bother them. We won fair and square and there is no dispute over the victory.

In the Kentucky-Ohio U. game, Captain Jack Tingle ran his scoring total to 100 field goals, 31 foul shots, and 234 points. Jack Parkinson, who holds second place in the Wildcat's scoring, ran his total to 493 points by registering 16 points against Ohio U. Parkinson now has 81 field goals and 25 foul shots. Third place in the Wildcat's scoring parade is held by Wilbur Schu, who has 58 field goals, 33 foul throws for a total of 149 points. The Kentucky team has 411 field goals and 198 free throws for 1,080 points, an all time scoring record for Kentucky basketball teams. The Wildcats' opponents have tallied 294 field goals and 170 free throws for 758 points.

Athletic Director Bernie A. Shively has been appointed head football coach after Al Kirtwan, at his own request, transferred from the athletic department to the history department.

Coach Shively's appointment lasts for the duration of the war and he retains all of his previous work plus the coaching job. His first problem will be the selection of assistant coaches and he said that they would be named as quickly as possible. He also announced that the 1945 Wildcat team would use the T formation and that he would need the cooperation of all the high school coaches in Kentucky.

If you intend to see the Southeastern Conference you had better make plans in a hurry, as the tickets are going fast, indicating a near capacity crowd for all the games. The teams are not as yet scheduled but the favorites to win are Kentucky, Tennessee and Georgia Tech, a team that may prove a dark horse. A lot depends on the outcome of the annual conference meet. Madison Square Garden would be a wonderful place for the Wildcats to finish the season.

Six Point Cat Victory Averages Season's Early Loss To Vols; Blues Defeat Bobcats 61-38

'Cats Pace SEC With 4 Victories; Vols, Tech Trail

By Dick Lowe

With only one minute and 40 seconds of playing time left the Kentucky Wildcats put on a splurge to down the Tennessee Volunteers 40-34 at the Alumni gym Saturday night before a jam-packed house. From the tip-off to the final whistle the 3,500 spectators were in a constant uproar.

The game was a typical Kentucky-Tennessee contest: tough, rough, and with plenty of action as both teams fought hard throughout to subdue the other. The victory avenged the one-point loss to the Orange and White quintet at Knoxville earlier in the season when the Vols defeated the 'Cats in the last minute 35-34. The Wildcats took over the lead of the Southeastern Conference after the game and are undisputed leaders with a four win-one loss record.

Vols Lead Early

The Volunteers jumped to an early lead and held on to it until the first few minutes of the second half. The Vols looked much superior to the 'Cats during the opening minutes of the game as their set-up plays and distant shots went through the hoop whereas the 'Cats' shots would hit the rim and then bounce away. The visitors ran up a 11-5 lead after five minutes of play, but then the Big Blue went to work, trimming the lead to three points at the intermission, 22-19.

Captain Jack Tingle twisted his ankle in the first part of the contest and was relieved by Buddy Parker. Tingle, top-scorer of the Southeastern Conference, was held to five points and most of the scoring was left to Jack Parkinson, second high-point man of the team, who tossed in five field goals and six free throws out of seven tries for a total of 16. The most aggressive player on the floor was "Dutch" Campbell, who played as if he were fighting a personal grudge when he retounded and outjumped his towering opponent and scored eight points by virtue of three pivot and two free throws.

Walthers Paces Tennessee

The one-handed orthodox shots by Paul Walthers came close to upsetting the 'Cats and if he had not fouled out the story may have been different. He paced the Vols' attack with nine points, tossing in four field goals and one free throw. Every member of the visiting team contributed to the cause but not enough to overcome the defeat.

The game was a close affair when the field goals were tallied: the 'Cats dropped in 12 to 11 for the Vols, with the margin of victory resting mostly upon the ability of the home team to hit the basket from the foul line. The 'Cats gained 16 points through this method whereas the Vols accounted for 12 of their score this way.

The traditional battle was a rugged affair with the officials calling 39 personal fouls, 23 against the Orange and White. There were several double fouls, the first of the season on the home court. Joe Gasparovic and Wilbur Schu fouled out for the Vols and Parker for the Wildcats.

'Cats Whittle Lead

The Vols started the action as Gasparovic and "Mule" O'Shields raked up four points in a hurry but then Parkinson shot a long one, and Campbell added a free throw. But Dan Thomas and Walthers went under for lay-ups and Bob Kemper dropped in a foul shot. After Campbell added another free shot, Thomas went under the basket again for a crisp and the Wildcats called time out as soon as Tingle and Parkinson scored from the foul line. As play resumed, the 'Cats settled down and slowly whittled the margin to two points 17-15 and then Tennessee called for a time-out. Bill Sturgill hit a long one from far out as the half ended with the Vols retaining a three-point lead.

Parkinson and Campbell evened the score at 24-24 in the opening minutes of the second half and from then on it was the 'Cats on the offensive and holding the lead except when Walthers tied the score at 28-28 with ten minutes of the game left, on a lay-up shot and a free throw. Schu accounted for three free throws and Tingle and Parkinson went under the basket for two fielders in the last battling moments of the game. The 'Cats froze the ball and then as the seconds ticked away they played the ball but the Vols were beaten and Kentucky had gained its revenge.

The Wildcats romped over the Ohio U. Bobcats 61-38 at Athens, Ohio, Monday night in a predicted close contest. Kentucky led all the way and the Bobcats' only threat in the final minutes, proved too little.

Second Victory

It was Kentucky's second victory over the Bobcats, and was more decisive than the 59-46 defeat handed them in Alumni gym January 6. The game brought the 'Cats record to 16 wins and three losses for the season.

With 13 minutes of the first half gone, Kentucky held a 24-9 lead, but the Ohio five whittled the score to 29-21 at the half time intermission.

Question Of Margin

During the second half the Wildcats got hot and ran the score to 44-28 before the Bobcats collected

Schu and Jack Parkinson, the game's high-scorer with 16 points, were the prime factors in the scoring department during the first half, each collecting four field and Parkinson adding a brace of free throws.

Jack Tingle took over early in the second half and led an early drive that settled the issue. Tingle swished in four field goals in the second half to bring his total to 13 points; Schu, Campbell, Parkinson, and Bill Sturgill were good for two each.

Kentucky's height advantage was so great that they got at least two and sometimes three or four shots at the hoop every time they got possession of the ball—that is if their initial attempt did not work. Jim Mackey, 6'2" center, was the only man over six feet in the Ohio lineup.

Jack Parkinson, with 16 points to his credit, was the high point man of the game. Tingle and Schu followed with 13 and 12 points respectively. Sayre's 10 points was high for Ohio university.

WAA Places First In Basketball Tourney

WAA Glamour Cats took first place in the intermural basketball tourney held in the women's gym during the winter quarter. The team had five wins and no defeats.

Kappa Delta ranked second with four victories and one loss, and Alpha Xi Delta, Delta Delta Delta, and Chi Omega all tied for third place with two wins and three defeats. Kappa Kappa Gamma ranked fourth with no wins and five defeats.

Peggy Reynolds, WAA player from Morehead, was top scorer of the tournament with 138 points to her credit. Pat Shely WAA, ranked second with 108 points, and Ruth Wilde, Kappa Delta forward, placed third with 71 points.
